

Historic Documents Research – Training workshop

Wednesday 5th September 7.00—8.30pm

Otterburn Memorial Hall, Otterburn, NE19 1NP

How can we use historic documents to help us find out more about
Redesdale's history?

What can they tell us about the Battle of Otterburn?

What documents should we look at and how do we go about it?

This training workshop will provide an introduction to historical research, covering important aspects of researching the history of Redesdale, including looking in detail at all of the many things previously written about the Battle of Otterburn from contemporary chronicles through to the views of modern historians. In addition, we will look at paintings, maps, ballads and indeed anything else that might shed some light.

No previous experience necessary. Teas, coffees and biscuits provided.
