

Gaelic

The East Coast of Sutherland (and Dornoch in particular) is not an area in which a substantial number of people regularly speak Gaelic in everyday life. However, DADCA recognises the importance of commitment to Gaelic in improving communication and understanding with Gaelic speakers. In recognition of the renewed interest in the Gaelic language and culture in Scotland, DADCA will undertake to foster the promotion of Gaelic in a variety of ways.

Where appropriate Dornoch and District Community Association will if requested:

- Produce bilingual versions of interpretative material, such as posters and signs.
- Promote our Scottish heritage in any way deemed appropriate and viable.
- Assess and meet the market demand for the Gaelic language – both oral and written
