Contestant's comments:

Thanks a lot for all of you guys for your patience in answer my QRP signal. RTTY with 5 watts is a challenge hihi. Will try to be better next year. best 73 for all of you ..... Jose CT1AOZ

Conditions were not as good as desired. Astonishing was the lack of stations from the United Kingdom. Tnx to all who participated in establishing this fine contest ..... Heinz DK7UM

Lots of fun but seemed less than normal activity -- EU only opened very weakly to British Columbia on Saturday morning with a handful of D, G, GMS and that was all. Managed all six continents on 20M -- didn't think I'd get AF, but ZS2EZ was once again the salvation here. This time of year he's like clockwork if I aim the yagi at South Africa and call CQ around my local noon. See you next year, with sunspots in tow. .... 73, Bud, VA7ST

Started off not bad and was holding my own until around 01:00 when started to fade and had to hit the sack. By the time I got back in the seat, many stations had passed me by and the bands weren't great. Still, a fun effort, and beat my score from last year. 10 meters never made a peep here. No JAs or VK/ZL, nor AS nor OC. Saw a few JAs being worked but none heard. Missed several Canadian call areas. Thanks to BARTG for a fun contest. .... 73, Bill VY2LI

Great contest. Thanks for everybody that worked me and for the spots. I am looking forward to the BARTG RTTY contest. .... Ted W4ZE

Contest Manager's Comments:

RTTY contesting is booming despite the poor conditions. Entries were well up this year with 681 logs received, a 14% increase on 2007. The increased activity and poor high band propagation put a lot of pressure on 40 and 80, resulting in very high noise levels around the centre RTTY frequencies and a big spread of stations up the bands. Oceania seemed to be the difficult continent this time with only 1 VK and 1 ZL appearing in the results. Log checking was not helped by the large number of logs received in the wrong format; mostly user error with MixW. Most JA entrants use RTCL software and all of these had to be manually edited before checking.

Congratulations to all the winners and thanks to everyone who took part; I hope you all had fun. See you in the BARTG HF RTTY contest.
